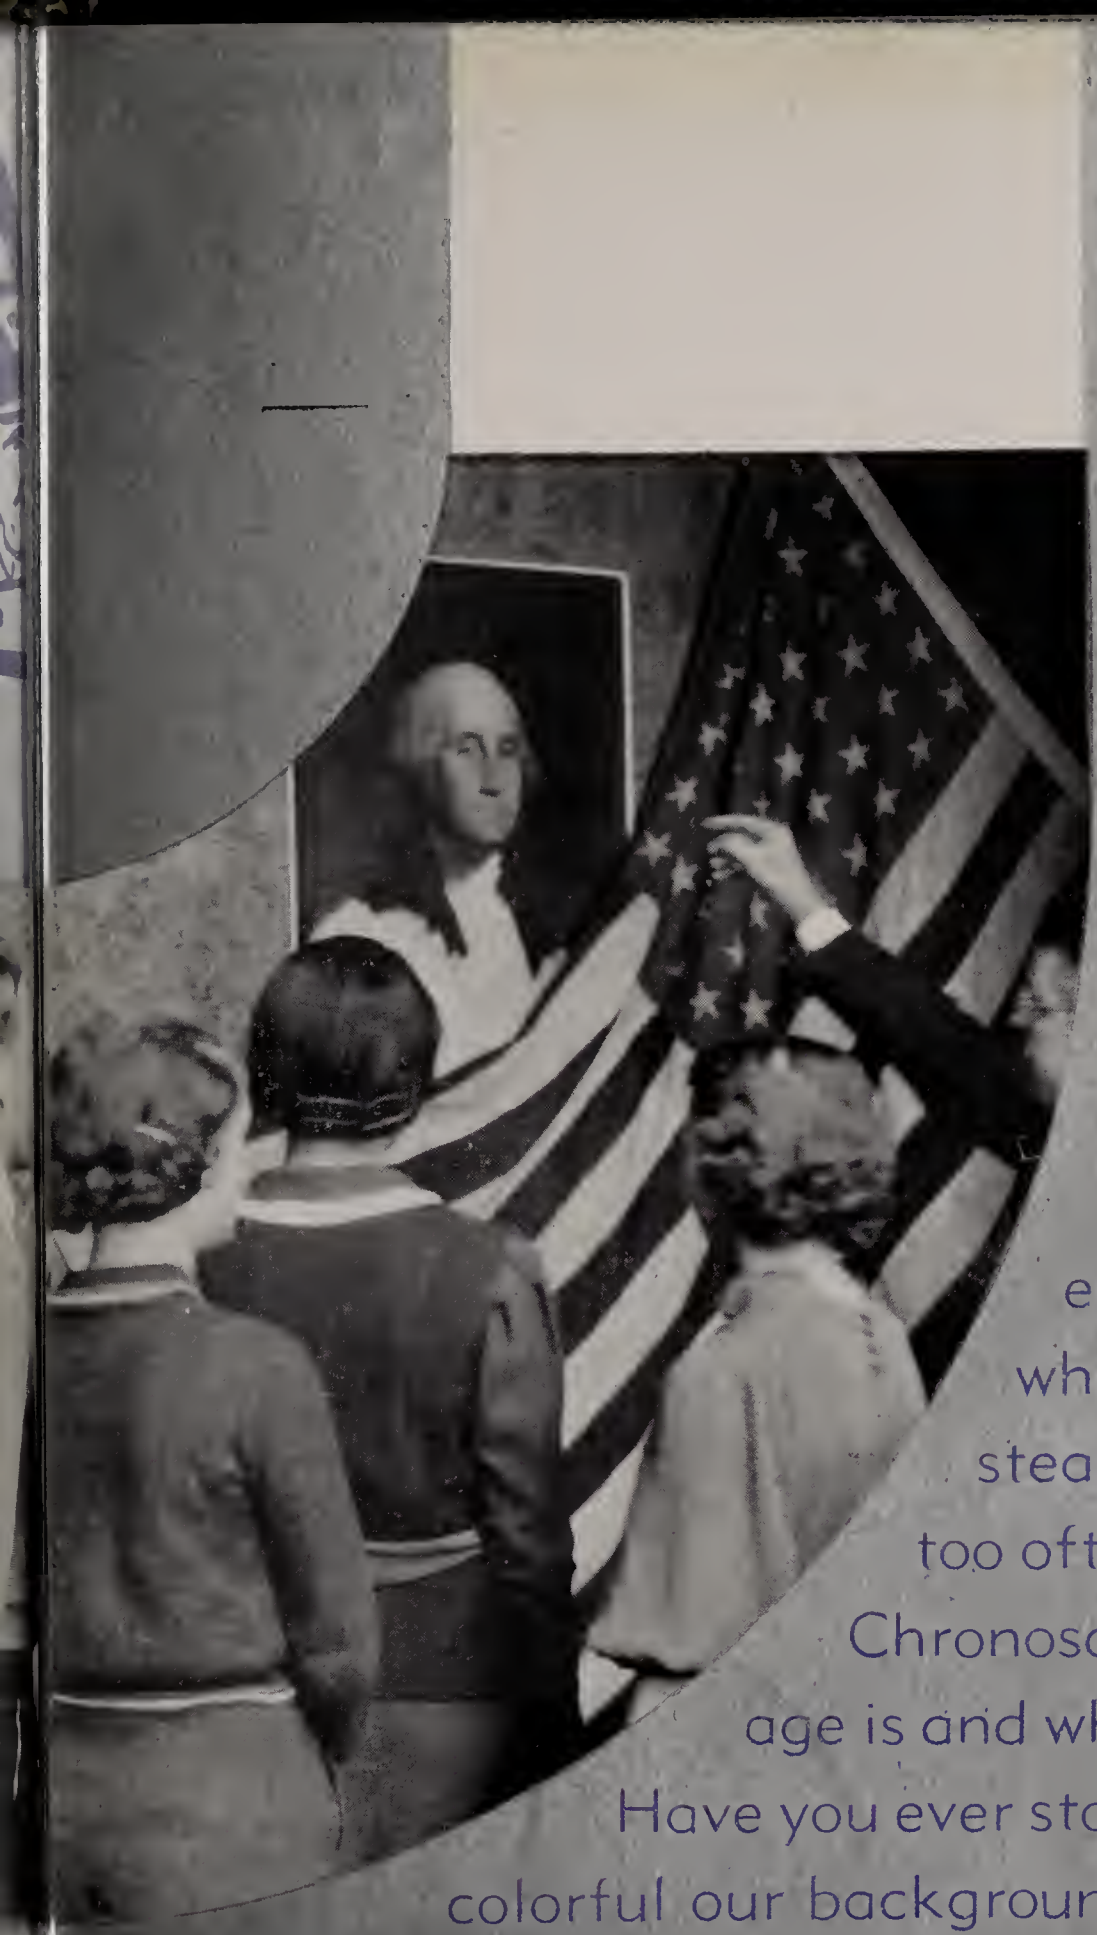
Our Heritage



OUR HERITAGE is a theme that vitally touches every boy and girl at Thornton Fractional, who as a student body, are representative of twenty-seven different nationalities. We are too apt to forget the years of experience, background, and training which shaped our education. Instead of ignoring this Heritage, as too often has been the case, the 1935 Chronoscope will show what our Heritage is and what it has done for us.

Have you ever stopped to consider how rich and colorful our background is? Among our ancestors are included sturdy and brave warriors from old Sparta and Italy, gay musicians and artists from Austria and Bohemia, clever scientists and inventors from Germany, and ardent patriots from Poland.

Dear Dot,
I always remember a true friend. And I shall always hear the echo of Gerald Swanks name in my ~~the~~ ear, as you knew that's all you talked about -- and that's quite a lot to you & know.

Sincerely,
Doris Nesenbury
"Giggles"

P. S. I couldn't resist the temptation to write what I did!

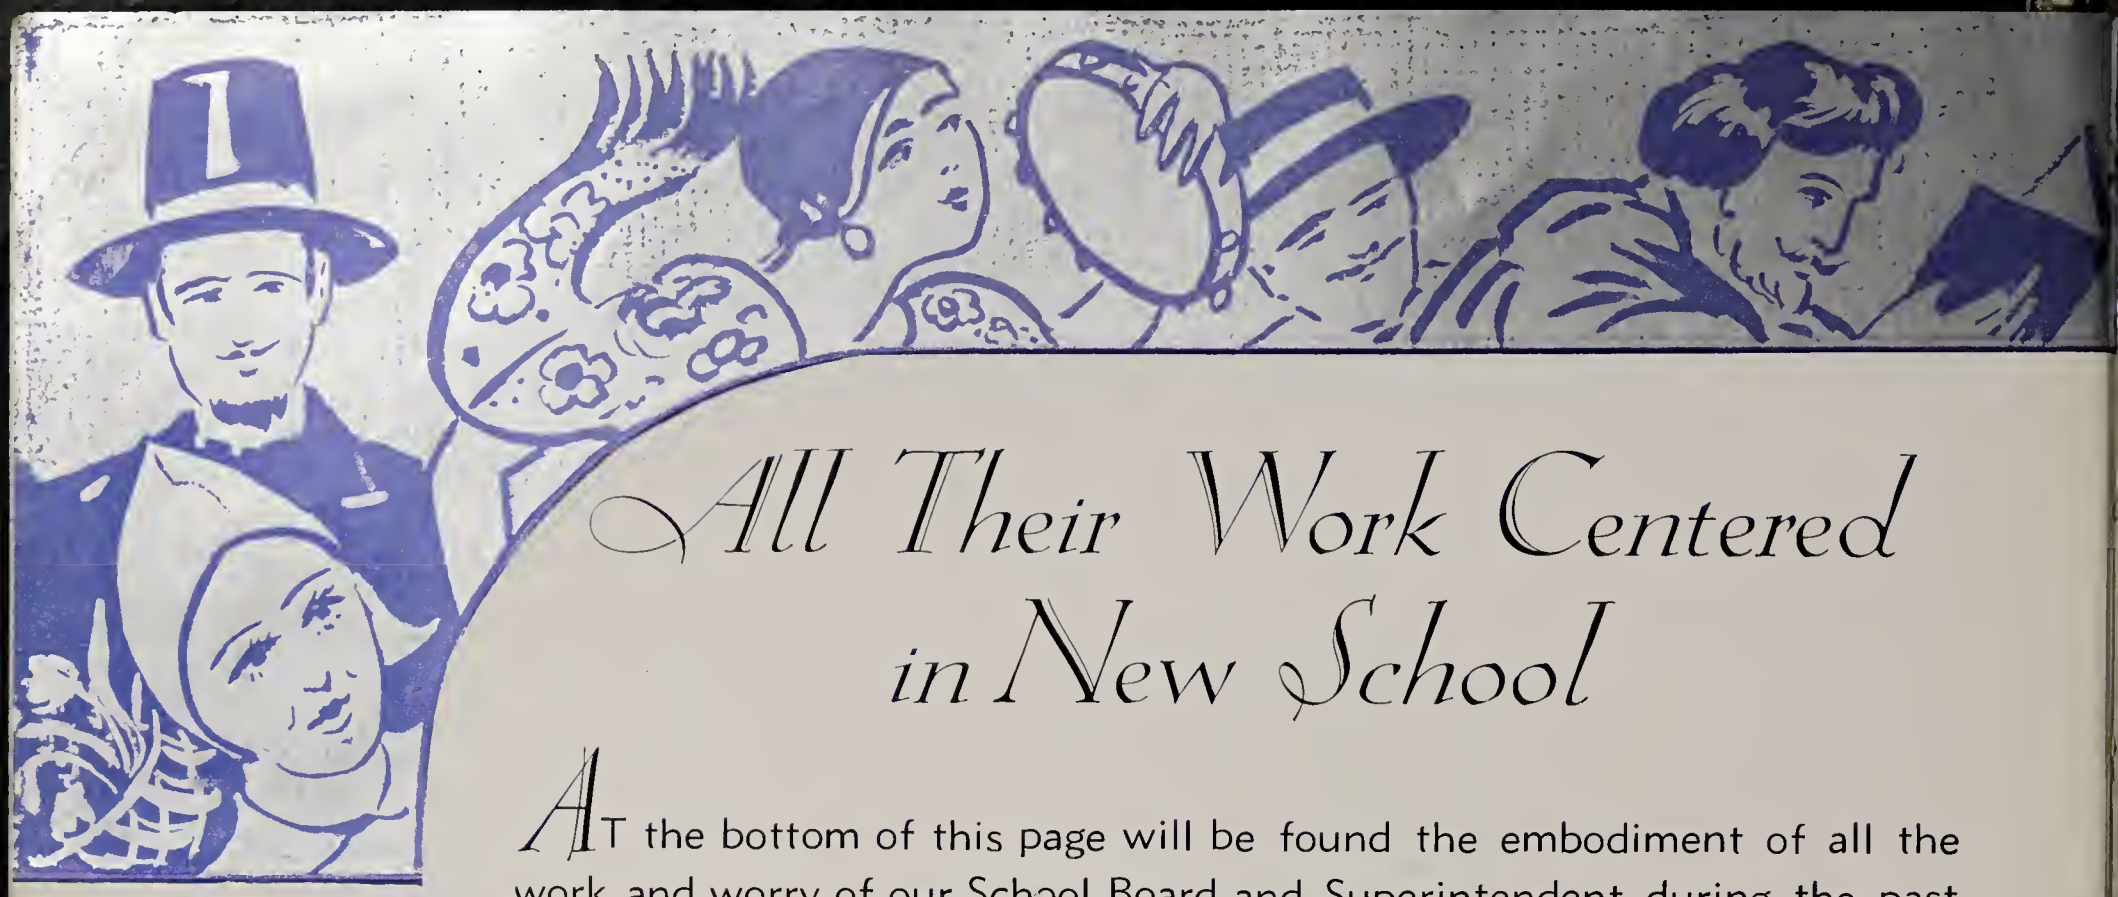
To Mrs. Eleanor Rice Long, former Dean of Girls, we dedicate this book. During the eight years she was at T. F. she succeeded in bringing together the students, representative of many parts of the world, to make of them one united group. Her enthusiastic work with the Girls' Club, the social hours, and the Carnivals was the greatest factor in the accomplishment of her purpose. To the girls she has been a Big Sister. Their interests were her interests. She fitted herself to deal successfully with each individual student. Although Mrs. Long is no longer with us, the spirit that she created still remains. And so, to her we give this very permanent place in our memories.

MRS. ELEANOR RICE LONG

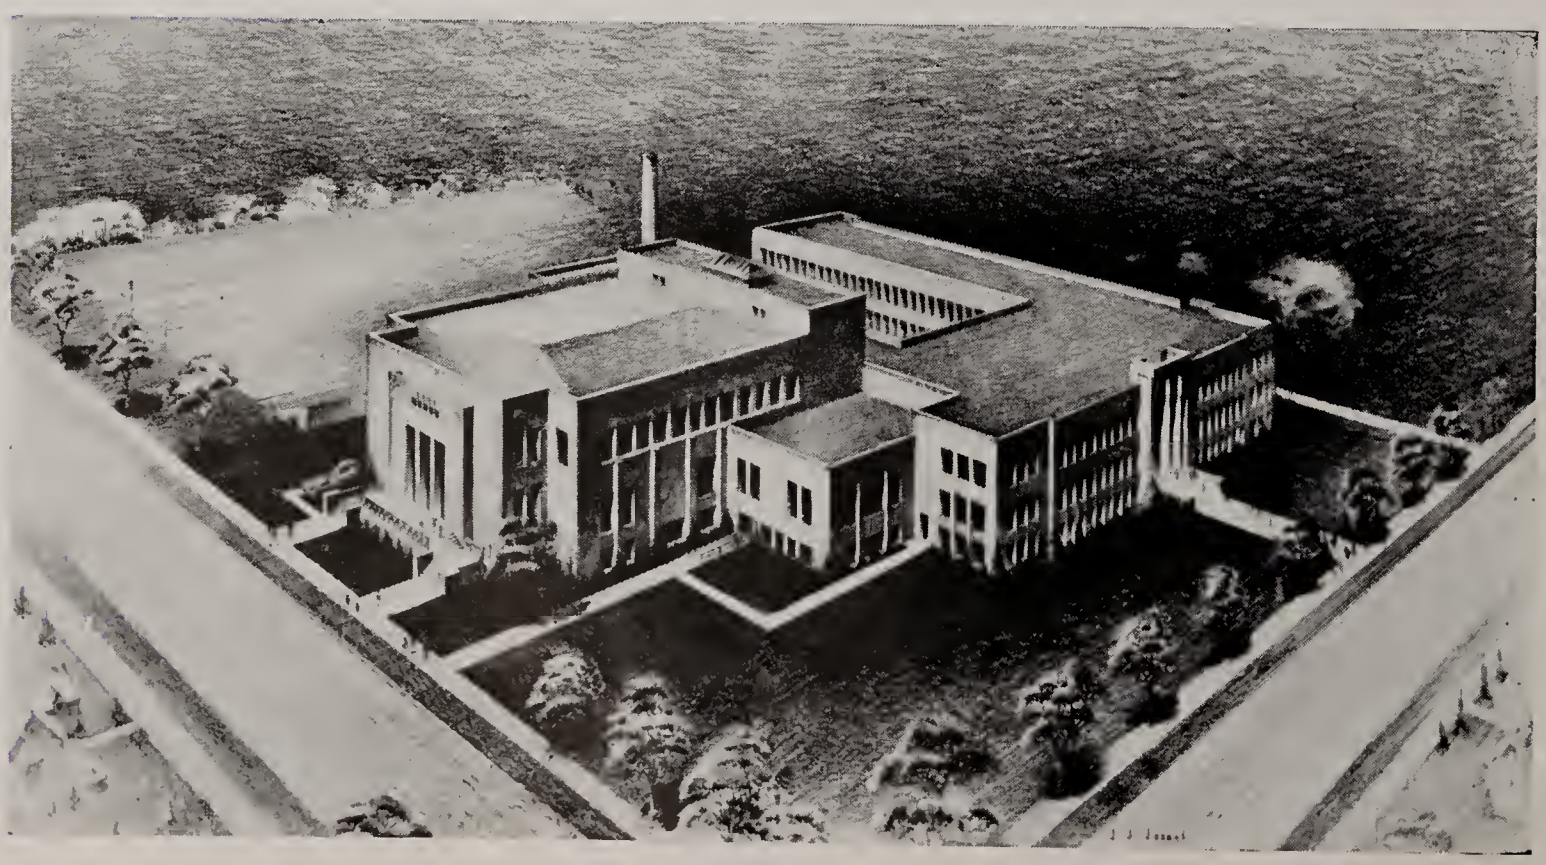


All Their Work Centered in New School

AT the bottom of this page will be found the embodiment of all the work and worry of our School Board and Superintendent during the past year.

Besides doing all in their power to forward the reconstruction of the school, the board has extended every effort towards the continuance of the education of our students in the most efficient and thorough manner consistant with the prevailing conditions. There has been a gradual falling off of school spirit and a new school building is absolutely essential for the unity of the school body.

It is through the school board that teachers of such varied environments have been chosen to teach here at T. F., thus giving the students the benefit of a wider range of knowledge.



Superintendent A. V. Lockhart

The Board and Mr. Lockhart are just as anxious as we are to enter the new building and are looking forward to the day. In fact, we have Mr. Huck's statement that he expects the building to be ready for occupancy not later than February 1, 1936.

Mr. John Shupryt, *Mrs. Julia Kowalski, Mr. John Huck, Mr. Theodore Maciejewski, Mr. Otto Fulker

Teachers Represent

No other phase of school life more truly mirrors Our Heritage theme than does our faculty. Almost every section of our country and almost every type of college and university are represented. A faculty composed of thirteen men and thirteen women enable the students to receive the masculine as well as the feminine view point on life. With ancestries ranging from the purest American to those of immediate European descent, our faculty is peculiarly endowed to give the students a cosmopolitan and broad outlook. MR. FRUEHLING best typifies our locality as he is one of our first alumni. With the exception of a trip to Germany when a boy, he has made his home here all his life. MISS KULLANDER is the only other member of our faculty to graduate from Thornton Fractional. She made a trip to Sweden last summer. One of her T. F. teachers, MISS KATHERINE BRAZZILL, who very ably teaches chemistry, is also a very accomplished musician. MISS HELEN BRAZZILL, her sister, specialized in Fine Arts while attending St. Mary's at South Bend. Another native of Illinois, MISS BUFFINGTON, attended Goucher College in the East. While living at the International House in Chicago, she came in contact with many foreigners—Hindus, Chinese, and Japanese. MISS KESSINGER has also spent some time in Chicago working as a secretary. While attending the University of Louisiana, she was called to replace Mrs. Denn as a commercial subjects teacher. Speaking of Chicago reminds us that MISS JAACKS came from there. She secured her education at Northwestern, and teaches physical education to the girls. The boys, in turn, receive their instruction in physical education from MR. PETREE, who is from Ohio. He attended Miami University there. MR. SHUMAKER'S alma mater is also Miami University. He believes that girls as well as boys should take automobile mechanics. MR. ANTONIDES typifies the sturdy nature of his Hungarian ancestors. His combined achievements in athletics and scholarship made him popular in his school days. Our best representative of the Irish is MISS McGRAW. Like Mr. Antonides she is a graduate of the University of Illinois. The Norwegians are represented by MISS MOE, whose home is in South Dakota. Her parents are old pioneers, having lived there forty years.

Varied Backgrounds

Another teacher of Scandinavian descent is MR. ELVIN. Both he and his wife are from Minnesota and Mr. Elvin came here direct from teaching at various Scandinavian private schools. MRS. CANAGA is of pure American stock, a direct descendant of Nathan Hale, the Revolutionary War hero. It is altogether fitting that she should teach American history. Another teacher whose ancestors fought in the American Revolution is MR. HITTLE. Mr. Hittle kept up the family traditions teaching at the Morgan Park Military Academy and at Illinois Military School. It was a coincidence that MR. STAPLEY and Mr. Hittle taught at Morgan Park and then came here. Mr. Stapley attended Iowa University. From the "wide open spaces" comes MISS SCHMIDT whose home is in Nebraska. Before coming to Thornton Fractional, she taught in Colorado. One of our Hoosier teachers, MR. KIESTER, a scientist, received his education in the East at Cornell and in the Middle West at Wabash College. Another Hoosier teacher is MISS McKEEHAN who comes from Fort Wayne. She is as proficient in French as in English. Still another from Indiana is MISS BURKLE, the home economics teacher. She, like Miss Zell, the former teacher, attended Purdue. MR. HORNBACK, a native of Missouri, went to college in the South at Central College, in the Middle West at the University of Chicago, and in the East at Harvard. Another mathematics teacher from Missouri is MR. SMITH and you have to prove it to him. Mr. Smith has taught at the University of Illinois. MR. LONG, on the contrary, attended school in the North at Indiana and Northwestern. He also traveled in Europe with the Ray Williams Orchestra. MISS HELEN McENCORE left after the first semester when she became Mrs. Henry Denn. She has traveled far and wide and is a most congenial person to work with. MR. LEONARD has been a high school principal before coming here. He has the distinction of passing the bar examinations the first time he tried. But the broadest experience in the most varied fields is MR. NELSON'S, our most cosmopolitan teacher, who has been a surveyor, has traveled around the world, is qualified to be an engineer, has studied law for several years, and served in the World War.

Our Heritage

THESE gowned figures, representing the objective of all Thornton Fractional students, portray four years of work in which each individual has added training and experiences and come into contact with students of different nationalities.

The student goes through four stages in his evolution: first, the freshman, bewildered and unacquainted with the practices and traditions of the school; next, the sophomore, having learned all of the regulations very eagerly awaits the time to become an upperclassman; then, the junior organized with class officers and proud to honor the seniors with the prom; and lastly, the seniors getting ready for graduation and at last - The Day!

Seniors Comment on

The class of 1935 has completed four years of high school education—the faculty has brought to a close their four years of training the students of this class. What benefits have been wrought? What activities during the past four years have been outstanding? What incidents have found a significant place in the memories of the students?

Interviews with the members of the class have brought to light many surprising things.

Friendship has stood out as the greatest of the benefits they have received from their four years. Maxine Cowell, Girls' Club president says, "I enjoyed most of all my classmates." Many of the students mentioned particular friends as James D'Errico who makes the remark, "I liked talking to Donald Arney in American Problems class." Glenn Fossett says that he enjoyed the girls on the Lansing bus. We find that

Their Four Years

John Luczak enjoyed the company of the girls, and Frank Lesczynski remarks, "I enjoyed sitting next to Ruby Snider in shorthand class." John Kolanko, '34, played a leading role in the early years of Norene O'Connell's high school life. Raymond McCloskey and Nick Padgen made the mutual agreement that they found the most enjoyment in their association with each other and with Tom Nondorf. Dorothy Kilinski states, "I received a better understanding of human nature through my association with different types of students.

Friends can also be made with students of other schools, and Mildred Knipp undoubtedly found this so when she made the statement, "I enjoyed the Girls' Club Conferences." Ileen Ramsey, and Leonora Marfas found that chumming around with their pals made school life more interesting. Dorothey Peters includes the companionship of the teachers in reviewing her past four years. Marie Schwarz states, "I find that my friendships are the best thing I got out of high school."

Contrary to the opinion that students enjoy social life the best, our interviews show that next to friendship, the students enjoy their classes.

Evelyn Dehlin, who has steadily maintained the highest scholastic average for four years says, "Of all the subjects I have taken in high school, typing and shorthand have been my favorites." Rosalie Palmateer and Alice Simons also enthusiastically maintained that there were no subjects in school that they enjoyed better than these two.

Bookkeeping has been the specialty of Joseph Nowak and Wanda Krukowski, and Herbert Keiser heads his list with commercial geography.

One school activity which seems to stand out in the minds of students is the current events clubs organized in Mrs. Canaga's history classes. Those who found this the most interesting in their school life were Julius Gordon, Claude Makowski, Ruth Bohling, Jean Mendyk, and Harriet Wojciechowski. Several of these held positions as president or secretary of their respective clubs. After spending several hours preparing a floor talk each week for history, Edward Preissig found that it was really worth while to stand up before the class and deliver it to an appreciative audience. Lawrence Plath affirms, "I shall always remember the only 100% I got in history." Elden Brown says that he is firmly convinced that geography and history are married and cannot be divorced.

All who know Robert Stewart, the class president, know that he hits the mark when he states, "I enjoyed arguing and orating."

The problem of studying has been taken care of in high school for Herman Zweiban. He says, "I learned to study on my own initiative." Anthony Zygmunt, Boys' Club president, makes the statement, "High School has endowed me with an appreciation of literature and life."

The science classes in school, though small, have proved especially interesting to several students. Alex Sroka and Lucian Sadowski enjoyed physics. This course is usually taken only by the boys. Marian Janiak states, "I enjoyed Miss Brazzill's chemistry class."

It seems that we also have natural born mechanics in our midst. Donald Koselke and Michael Bobonick enjoyed the auto shop. Edward Raasch makes the remark, "I enjoyed working on automobiles but not in the tool room."

Doris Denenburg found her keenest enjoyment in business English. Mary Ann Luniewski says that she could not write a letter before she took business English. English IV found favor in the eyes of Josephine Taylor especially, she says, when there were arguments in class on the "Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard."

"Biology classes were most enjoyable. It was great fun dissecting the fish and the frog," was the comment made by Willien Schrum. Lauretta Stachowicz found something far aside from her daily work. She says, "High school has taught me to appreciate the beautiful and has extended the scope of my imagination."

Journalistic work has proved most enjoyable to Mary Evans and Nina Larson. Mary says, "After the school burned, the journalism class was most enjoyable to me." Nina Larson says, "The work on the 1935 Chronoscope gave me something to enjoy entirely different from regular school work." Leontine Dinwiddie especially mentioned her enjoyment of the Lowdown Column in the Thorntonian, which goes to show that the newspaper has not been in vain.

Mary Vergin says, "Through my high school education, I have learned how to face and meet people." Bernard Felsecker thought he had found the one great thing in school when he joined the aviation class, but as bad luck would have its way, the school burned down.

There is one girl in the class, Stephany Rogalski, who liked the assemblies best and wished that there had been more of them.

The G. A. C. has become one of the greatest things in binding girls of a common interest together. When asked what to them was most enjoyable at least fifteen girls did not hesitate to say, "G. A. C.!"

Elizabeth Felsecker liked especially volleyball and swimming. Marian Jansen craved the swiftness of basketball. Sevela Albiniak says that the Terrapin Club was her greatest interest. Doris Sankey says, "I liked going for five mile hikes to earn a T. F. letter." Helen Stasiak and Gertrude Van Senus thought that nothing in school could equal the enjoyment they got out of swimming. Iva Horgeshimer, Helen Kaczynski, and Ruby Snider were all-around G. A. C. members and liked everything there was to like about G. A. C.

Basketball, football, and swimming play important parts in the high school years of many boys' lives. Marvin Jones, manager of the basketball team, found his job as manager of the greatest interest. Billy Michalowski states, "I liked best my place on the championship basketball team." Teddy Czechanski and John Petriska found their greatest enjoyment in this game also. We quote Mike Genova, who says, "I enjoyed my four years spent in football." Albert Madrzyk says that he found a great deal of enjoyment in football, especially when he got to move down towards the end of the bench where he spent much of the time. Richard Trammell, although he did not play football, will always remember the reserve game at Roosevelt when Walter Biel was christened "Butch." Ervin Reichert took the part of a spectator at all the games and found that he liked this best of all.

Swimming was the high-light in the lives of Charles Lochte, Chester Prorak, Leonard Ryband and George Siegfried. Walter Bolek says, "I enjoyed swimming with Pe-triska and perfecting the snake dive with John Zaikis. Albin Wilczynski states, "Best of all was participation on the track team." Edwin Wojciechowski found what it could mean to have teamwork and cooperation in sports. Herbert Hoffman included all sports in choosing from his four years his greatest interest. Donald Jabaay found that he enjoyed gym the most while it lasted. Virgene Anderson enjoyed sports, too, but she enjoyed them through her enthusiastic work as cheerleader.

It should please Mrs. Long to know that there were many students who found that nothing could please them better than the annual school carnival. Some of these students participated and others were spectators. Lorraine Brown says, "I enjoyed the 1934 Carnival although I almost caused a panic by forgetting part of my costume and had to rush home for it." Janis and Leoda Doe enjoyed dancing at the carnivals in which they took part. Melva Cartwright liked taking part by singing. Gertrude Dobrynski found enjoyment in the same way. Minnie Blink got the most fun out of Jimmie Finneran and his famous fan dance. Florence Gauthier says that she will always remember the 1934 Carnival. Ruth Troppman was another who found her enjoyment through the carnivals.

Dramatic events will be long remembered by Jack Dermody. Charles Swanson finds he liked music and the junior play equally well. Alice Hacker wished that there had been more plays to see.

Casimir Kuzdrowski found that he got the most cut of music and John Eilens said that he enjoyed most of all the glee club.

Social life is always one of the most interesting things in school life. This was found to be so by Myron McCarthy, Edna Alpert, and Iris Eggebrecht. Many other students who participated in sports, in dramatic events, and specialized in studying also found time to attend socials and have a good time.

Life in the portables has left its mark on the students. Genevieve Kaszuba remarks, "I enjoyed especially the last three semesters of fresh air and sunshine in the Lincoln Portables. Annabelle Teninga says that she enjoyed the walk between the portables. Freda Hartung enjoyed the hikes from Lincoln to Wentworth during the warm weather. Dora Vanderby enjoyed seeing teachers tend furnaces.

Eleanor Hartung and Marvelle Norrgran thought that the teachers' going to institutes offered great opportunities especially, Marvelle says, when they could go bicycling.

Dorothy Hill found that falling down stairs could be an interesting diversion.

Virginia Komarowski found out how to change a flat tire as the result of driving to school every day.

Richard Rottier liked the games that the boys participated in before classes.

Don Gosch thought that the fair June days gave him most enjoyment.

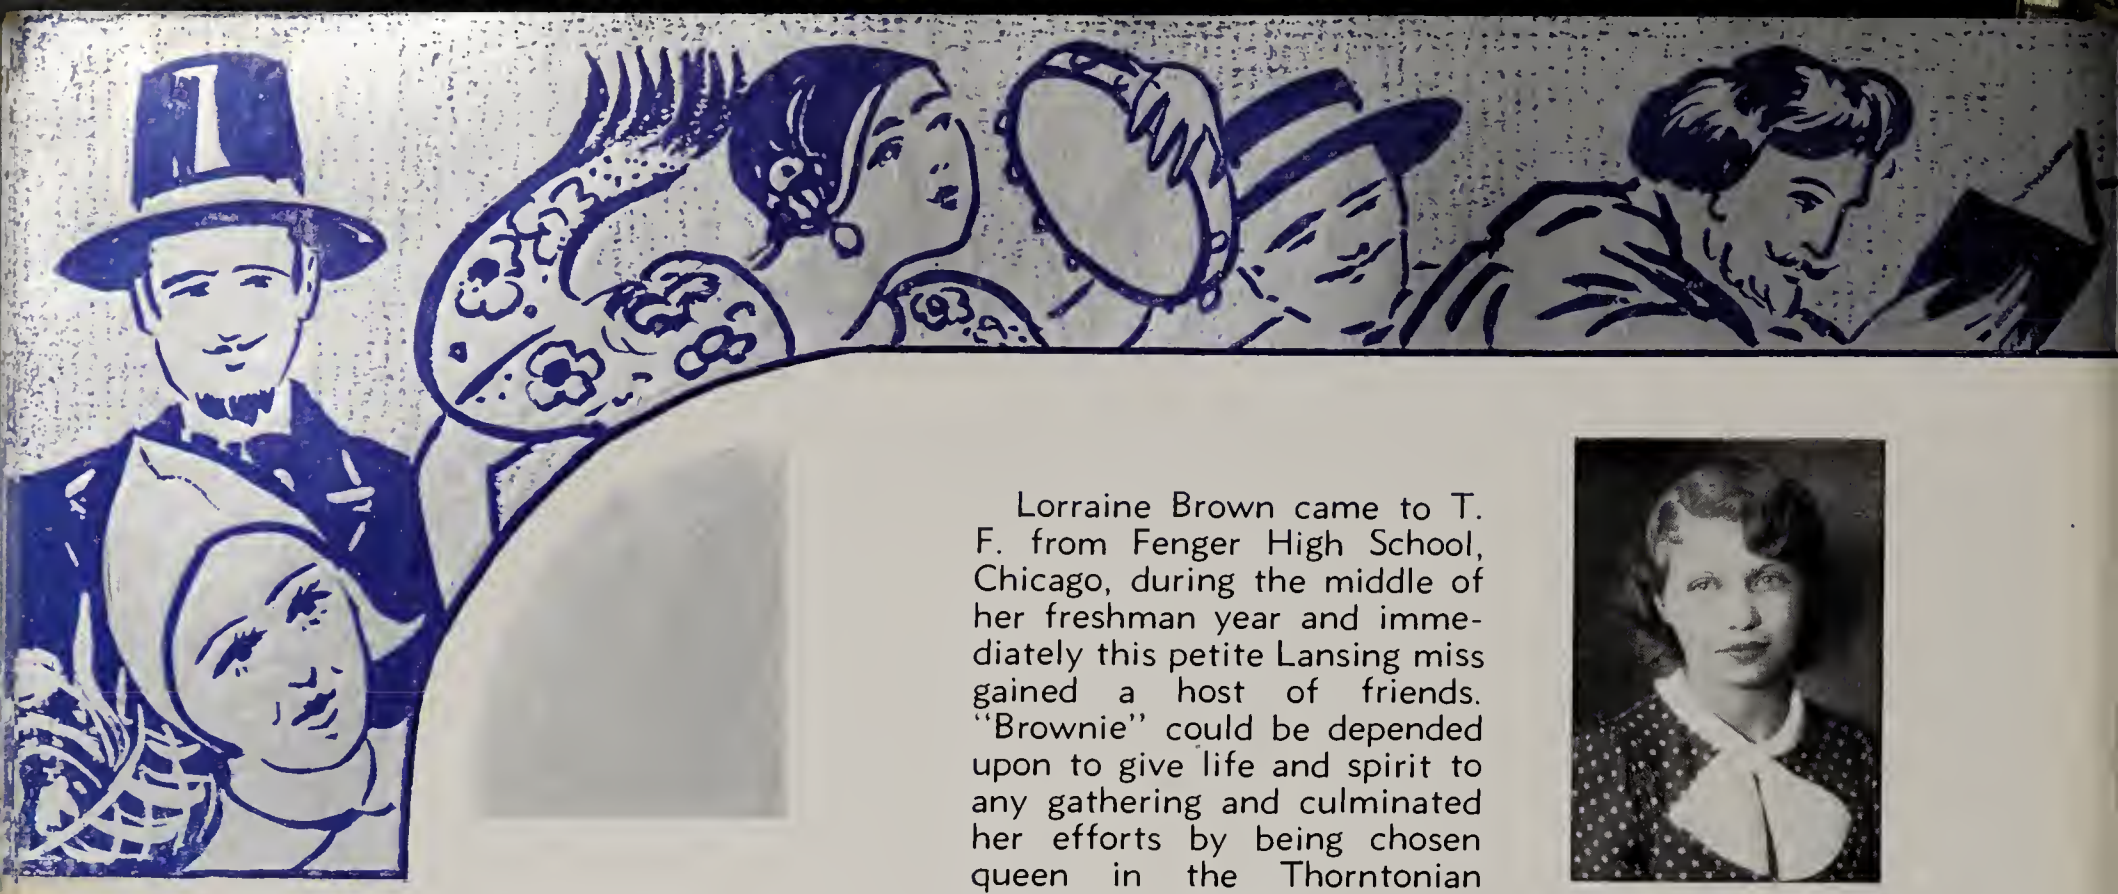
These interviews with over 125 graduating seniors shattered the general conception that our high school students are frivolous and seek only good times. For the really worth-while and enduring phases of school life were most enjoyed—friendships and studies. What could be more worth-while? The teachers should feel that the class of 1935 has profited well by their instruction. Now the class in its turn should carry to others the fine things that they have received.

CLASS COLORS: Royal Blue and Silver CLASS FLOWER: Tea Rose

CLASS MOTTO: "Honor lies in honest toil."

CLASS OFFICERS: President, Robert Stewart; Vice-President, John Petriska, Secretary, Marie Schwarz; and Treasurer, Robert Ward.

CLASS SPONSORS: Mr. Jackson Kiester, Miss Adeline C. Jaacks, Miss Sigrid Moe, and Mrs. Ruth Hale Canaga.



Lorraine Brown came to T. F. from Fenger High School, Chicago, during the middle of her freshman year and immediately this petite Lansing miss gained a host of friends. "Brownie" could be depended upon to give life and spirit to any gathering and culminated her efforts by being chosen queen in the Thorntonian Popularity Contest.

Juniors Not To

The one goal and objective of the junior class is to be the first graduates from our new school. The Class of 1936! Although handicapped in their activities because of the "chain-school" system of attending school, they nevertheless have their share of leaders and will be able to continue and carry on where the present seniors left off.

The first step toward class organization was taken with the election of Donald Finneran, as class president; Harold Coyle, vice-president; Wilma Rottier, secretary; and Anna Hadima, treasurer. Their chief work was putting on the Junior-Senior Prom.

The results of the first semester honor roll indicated that there were fourteen girls and seven boys of this class who attained an average of 90% or better. Martin Kraegel heads this list and incidentally, has continually led the boys' honor roll for the whole school. Thomas Skonieczny, Joseph Hayden, Allan Kooy, James Korellis, Adam Mecha, and Kenneth Howmiller are the other boys.

The girls have an exceptionally good showing and the following attained positions on this select list: Mary Korellis, Eleanor Jarchow, Dorothy Mayer, Florence Jozwick, Sophia Wdowka, Stella McNally, Florence Mlynek, Selma Schultz, Lorraine Nelson, Dorothy Beanblossom, and Jean Cusick.

Three juniors who will carry on the school publications next year are Mary Korellis, Dorothy Mayer, and Joseph Hayden. Joseph was also vice-president of the News Hawks, the new journalism club organized this semester. Clara Schomaker deserves much credit because of her invaluable aid in the circulation department.

Be Out Done

One of the most successful plays was this year's junior play, "A Russian Honeymoon." Due to the intelligent interpretatiion of their roles, Herman Zweiban, Veronica Murphy, Jack McGinnis, Rose Bigus, Martin Kraegel, Margaret Boglarsky, and Jack Sandusky are to be especially commended.

The "Beau of Bath" given as an English class project by the 11B's included in its cast Loretta Taitz as the Beau of Bath, Lucille Huck as Rosamond, and Dorothy Beanblossom as Jepson, the butler. This same cast also gave the play at the Hammond Womans' Club. The 3:40 class gave their interpretation of the same play with Kenneth Howmiller as the Beau of Bath, Mary Korellis as Rosamond, and William Foster as the butler, Jepson. Jack McGinnis, Betty Curry, Martin Kraegel, Lucille Huck, and Irving Bishop, participated in the Christmas pageant, "Why the Chimes Rang."

Frances Ellis serving her second year as drum major made a charming picture out on the field in her uniform. The band is the only musical organization in school, at present, and the Junior class members are: Kenneth Howmiller, William Breidenbach, Margaret Marchant, Mark Jaeger, Harry Petrie, Jack McGinnis, Katherine Wells, and Marvin Biederstadt.

The Girl's Club has functioned because Miss Buffington, the dean of girls, very graciously allowed the girls to use her apartment for their meetings, and all of the traditional projects have been carried out. Junior girls have played a large part in carrying out the activities so successfully. Edna Van Pelt and her Ford, "Gertrude," were a great help when any errands had to be done. Marjorie Prest was invaluable on the

The members of the Boy's Club Board are: James Korellis, Robert Berwanger, Tom Nondorf, Harold Coyle, Frank Stachowicz, Donald Finneran, Robert Zimmerman, John Swanson, Marvin Biederstadt, and Frank Grigonis. Although not members of the board, Charles Pavnick and Clem Ehinger spent many hours in doing odd jobs for the club.

Athletic junior girls have been prominent members of G. A. C. They include: Alice Snider, Margaret Marchant, Alice Lammering, Frances Ellis, Harriet Stelling, Helen Conner, Clara Schomaker, Irene Lewandowski, Katherine Wells, Edith Gutzwiller, Eleanor Vierk, Gertrude Streufert, Florence Mlynek, Mary Derkacs, and Florence Jozwick.

A great number of boys have participated in athletics and the junior to lead this list is John Nowak, the only junior member on the all Suburban Team elected because of this work as fullback on the heavyweight football team. Other junior members of the heavyweight football team are: Frank Grigonis, Harold Coyle, Donald Finneran, Harold Fitzgerald, Frank Spogis, Bernard Karr, Jasper Mangino, Tom Nondorf, Mike Kmatz, John Piecuch, Edward Gralak, and Valentine Lewandowski.

The members on the heavyweight basketball team are Frank Grigonis, Don Finneran, Bernard Karr, Mike Kmatz, Edward Kolodziej, and Robert Berwanger. Juniors on the lightweight basketball team are Robert Zimmerman, William Gallagher, Angelo Milazzo, and William Foster.

Frank Stachowicz and Thomas McCullough won their letters as football managers of the lightweights. Walter Michalowski helped to manage the lightweight basketball team and Benton Annerino, the heavyweight team. Two ping pong champs appear on the horizon. At a tournament held at Memorial Park, Irving Bishop won first place in the senior division and Jack Sandusky in the intermediate division.

Charles Stewart was the juniors' contribution to the cheer leading staff and also a valuable reporter of the Thorntonian. Freida Hopkins and Charles Pavnick sang in the junior play chorus and in the chorus at the Christmas pageant.

Lorraine Walsh, formerly of St. Victor's, is remembered for her attractive floor show at the News Hawks Hop.

When turning next to the underclassmen it is with a feeling of sadness that one of their number had to be left by the side.

Our Heritage

THIS picture represents one phase of school life which our students this year have enjoyed to the limit. It seems that they have wanted to mingle and get better acquainted, due no doubt to the fact that they are scattered. The social hours have been one of the factors in drawing our students together. This year, also, dramatics have taken a forward step in that all the students have had an opportunity to take part in a class production. The band, with the help it has received from the underclass production, has made great strides towards replacing the instruments that were lost. And then there have been sports. As always, sports have figured as one of the most vital factors of school life. Thus all have contributed to that ideal balance of work and and play produces the happiest of school life.

Leadership Is Honored

The method of electing Thornton Fractional students to the National Honor Society has varied with the years. Throughout these changes a few select rules have held. Mainly, a student had to be in the upper one-third of his class, scholastically, and his citizenship ideals had to be on a high level.

Originally, a faculty committee of five elected the members. This method could not last very long for our school continued to grow and it was impossible for any five teachers to know all the students or to give them a fair rating.

One year it was decided to give the students a voice in the choice. Their vote was to count one-third of the total vote. This, however was not successful as a "popularity contest" ensued.

Finally, last year, the entire faculty met for the first time to make the elections. It has again been done this year and is considered as the fairest way. Mr. Lockhart tabulates the grades for the students' first seven semesters work or first five semesters if the person is a junior, and presents them to the faculty members. They, taking this, all outside activities, and citizenship into consideration, cast their ballots.

At the second and third meetings of the Honor Society, officers were elected. They were: president, Dan Kelley; Vice President, Nina Larson; Secretary, Marie Schwarz; treasurer, Wayne Arney.

At the installation exercises Mr. Lockhart expressed his faith in "brains," deprecating the popular mistrust of intellectual ability.

Girls Work As One

The Girls' Club—the organization that brings four hundred girls together, working for one purpose! Ideas and opinions grow from the minds of this group and come before the Girls' Club Board to be debated upon and made into a reality.

The Girls Club this year undertook an entirely new project — that of community service. Twenty members of the Girls' Club assisted Miss Bailey at the baby clinics. Two of the traditional welfare projects carried out again this year were the Thanksgiving baskets numbering thirty-eight and the sale of twenty-two dollars worth of tuberculosis Christmas seals.

In cooperating with the Boys' Club, very delightful social hours were enjoyed. Their success was evident by the wide attendance of the alumni. The opportunity for the incoming freshmen to get acquainted with the Board was very small indeed, but a satisfactory way was found with the open meetings one of which was held early in the fall and the other in winter. Both meetings which included a short business meeting, a program, and refreshments were well attended by the girls. The three annual social affairs of the club, the Girls' Club Dance, the Mother-Daughter Party and the Girls' Club Picnic were huge successes as they have been every year.

The Girls' Club would not have made such successful strides had it not been for the one person who is directly responsible for its achievements, Miss Buffington, the dean of girls. Miss Buffington with her patient cordiality was able to seat forty peppy girls in her apartment at the Girls' Club Board meetings.

A Year of A New Deal

After a period of planning and discussions with Mr. Fruehling, the president of the Boys' Club decided to carry out a new policy, conceived on the principle that the club was to become the most active body in the school and was to take in to active service as many boys as possible. To achieve this, the board was enlarged from eleven to thirty-one members. These were divided into five committees, the athletic, the social, th big brother, the social service, and the school improvement and standard.

The enlarged board proved very unwieldy, and besides the regular monthly meeting, which for the first time in the club's existence was open to all boys, all business had to be transacted through committees, a method to be continued next year. These open meetings, however, proved to be an inexhaustible source of new ideas.

The social committee, cooperating with the Girls' Club, made the social hours a huge success. Working with an untiring zeal, it succeeded in raising $30 to put on the annual club dance at the Woman's Club on May 10. The affair was the grandest ever put on by the club. The new feature of installing the new officers at this time was inaugurated.

The Big Brother committee successfully worked out a splendid program for the freshman welcoming party and the traditional father and son get-together.

The social service and the school improvement and standard committees, working with the Girls' Club, helped the less fortunate by soliciting thirty-eight Thanksgiving baskets which were distributed to families in Calumet City, Lansing, and Burnham.

The athletic committee sponsored a tennis and a kittenball tournament.

The Band Played On!

Strains of gypsy music from the Danube and mournful folk songs from the Volga intermingled with the German lieder are wafted down from our European ancestors to their music loving children on these shores. All of our forebears had their own characteristic national music which is a prized heritage not only of their descendants but of the nation as a whole.

Mr. Long, the director, undaunted by the loss of instruments in the fire, has gone on with the difficult task of reorganizing the band. Handicapped by our present system of attending school and complicated schedules, many students desiring to be members could not be accomodated. The band rehearses in eleven different places and heavy instruments have to be carried around.

But the band played on! With Frances Ellis as drum major the band played at the football games and at the junior and senior plays. Robert Stewart, trombonist, represented Thornton Fractional in the All-State Orchestra at Urbana. A brass emsemble and a woodwind duet furnished the music at the "Merchant of Venice," freshman-sophomore play. From this play, which was given for the band's benefit, almost $100 was realized to be used for purchasing band instruments.

Several beginners have been added with most of them owning their own instruments. They are: Grace Larson, Arthur Larson, Leonard Fiedorowicz, Kathryn Rottier, Ralph Mason, Arthur Blackburn, Eldine Howmiller, Elaine Howmiller, Arnold Bloos, Arthur Moore, Ruth Binckes, John Van Schouwer, Donald Williams, Gayle Keefe, Joseph Trempcynski, Alva Ogborn, Cart Evert, and Cleo Baxter.

Prospects are brighter and in the new school, a well equipped band will express the T. F. spirit in music.

Point System Is Inaugurated

This year the Thorntonian again came to life in the form of a printed paper through the optimism of Miss Moe, Miss Jaacks, and the journalism class.

It was hoped at first that the support of the student body would be all the financial aid the paper would need and although the total paid circulation always hovered around 600, it was finally necessary to resort to ads of which Dorothy Mayer took charge.

All the writing for the paper was done by the students. Miss Moe was ever ready to give helpful advice. Proof reading was done by members of the journalism class. Miss Jaacks could always be depended upon to be on hand when it was time to go to Lansing for the final proofreading.

One of the big events of the school year was the News Hawks' Hop on April 23 at Memorial Park. The main feature of the evening was the crowning of the most popular senior girl and boy, selected by votes cast on coupons printed in the Thorntonian.

Feature editions included: The Thanksgiving issue, the Christmas issue, commemorating the anniversary of the fire, St. Patrick's issue, the unforgettable April Fool's issue, the Easter issue, and the Commencement issue.

The original journalism class numbered ten, but due to the great amount of writing that had to be done, additional reporters were added. A staff meeting was held each Monday so that assignments might be given out and staff problems discussed.

Besides writing for the Thorntonian, news was also handed in each week to the Times and the Lansing Journal. Herman Zweiban had complete charge of the news sent to these papers.

For Joining News Hawks

The responsible positions on the staff were held by Bruce Jacques, who was editor-in-chief; Marie Schwarz, senior assistant, took charge of the circulation of the paper; Joe Hayden as filing clerk took charge of clipped articles from the paper, exchanged with other schools, and kept up the note books of the members.

If you wish to see the accomplishments of the Chronoscope staff this year, just glance through the pages of this book.

While thus gazing, you surely must notice the three colors used in the printing. For the first time in the history of T. F. three colors were used in the Chronoscope.

However, the cost of printing these colors increases the expense. Because of this, the price of the book was raised to one dollar. But even this was not enough to pay the bills. Therefore, Anthony Zygmunt, business manager, and his assistants, John Luczak, Frank Stachowicz, and Bob Berwanger, started off on the big job of securing $400 worth of advertisements. In the subscription drive Miss Jaack's genial personality made students and faculty alike eagerly offer their co-operation.

Some people consider positions on the year book honorary but this is not so. They involve much labor. Even though several of the articles were written by others on the staff, the bulk of the work was done by Mary Evans, editor-in-chief, and Nina Larson and Mary Korellis, assistant editors.

Working on the Chonoscope as well as working on the Thorntonian enables one to become a member of the News Hawks, the newly-organized journalism club. To become a member one must gain 1000 points. These points are obtained by doing various jobs connected with journalism, such as editing, writing, filing, proofreading, circulation work, research, exchange, etc. The charter members of the club are members of the Thorntonian and Chronoscope staffs.

Artistic and

Did you ever wonder about the life and manners of your ancestors? Students of Russian and Polish descent saw the probable actions of their forebears in "A Russian Honeymoon," this year's junior play, presented by the junior class November 15 and 16 under the skillful and artistic direction of Miss McGraw. Do you think that these ancestors would have felt at home amid the richly brocaded furnishings of Chateau Woroffski or at their ease in the humble home of Ivan, the shoemaker? What would they think if they saw the hand kissing and the bowing from the waist? Would they have been impressed as greatly as you were by the brilliant long trained costumes and stately uniforms?

Veronica Murphy gave a most excellent protrayal of an overbearing Countess. Her presence was unbearable to others until she was led to believe that her husband, Count Gustave de Woroffski was a serf. The count, Herman Zweiban, cleverly tamed her to the role of a housewife. Martin Kraegel (Ivan, the shoemaker) converted himself into an old man rolling out homely proverbs every now and then. His appearance on the stage was awaited eagerly by the audience. Jack Sandusky, as Osip, and Margaret Boglarsky, as Micheline, Ivan's daughter, formed a perfect love team. Jack McGinnis very capably handled the part of the cruel intendant of Chateau Woroffski. Rose Bigus, the count's sister, a rapid fire talker, took matters into her own hands and guided the count and his wife back to matrimonial bliss.

The Christmas playlet, also directed by Miss McGraw, and presented at St. Victor's Church on the afternoon of December 10, brought out the beautiful and deeply religious feeling for Christmas possessed by our foreign ancestors.

Adventurous

The vision in this pageant, unparallelled in beauty by any previous school performance, presented an altar before which bowed a priest, and to him, presenting their gifts, came courtier, knights, beautiful women, and a king. All fail but Holger (Herman Zweiban), who causes the chimes to ring by offering a gift to the priest.

Many of us have seen Shakespearian plays and have thought of them as something high brow. But to Miss Alice McKeehan, an ardent Shakespearian fan, they were something for everyone to enjoy. She went further and decided that T. F. freshmen could enact them.

In order to give as many freshmen and sophomores as possible a chance to appear in the play, she undertook the tremendous task of working with two casts. Cast A interpreted their version of Shakespeare at Lincoln School, March 12, Cast B at Wentworth School, March 14, and a cast selected from these at Lansing, March 18.

With two excellent casts headed by Dorothy Mayer and Reed Buffington (leads in the Wentworth-Lansing production), Ruth Sibley and Walter Karlen (leads of the Lincoln cast), this play could not help being successful.

In these productions, Miss McKeehan was very ably assisted by Mr. Hornback, Miss Kullander, and Miss Buffington, the latter having charge of costumes.

Doesn't a time arrive (especially in the spring) when a strange feeling of wanderlust comes over you and you wish that you weren't living such a tiresome existence?

You crave adventure — and what could be more adventurous than living on a Pirate ship with the notorious "Captain Applejack?"

Although we know that such a transmigration is impossible, our minds constantly toy with the idea and when the audience of "Captain Applejack" vicariously enjoyed this desired existence, it was as though they themselves belonged to the blood-thirsty era. This perfect illusion was made possible through the remarkable performance of Ambrose Applejohn, excellently portrayed by Don Gosch, and by the splendid work of Janis and Leoda Doe (Anna Valeska and Poppy Faire). The very best talent in the senior class was again discovered and developed by Miss Mary McGraw.

Poppy was Ambrose's ward. She watched him change from a mild conventional man to a man of action. He, bored to distraction, wished to sell his worldly belongings and set out for parts unknown. He asked Johnny Jason (ably portrayed by Donold Koselke) to sell his house. Johnny, anxious to sell the house, caused five theives to believe that Ambrose was a descendant of the notorious "Captain Applejack" and that the latter's treasure was hidden in the house. By a strange coincidence all this was true.

The five thieves are: Anna Valeska and Ivan Borolski (Jack Dermody) who gave a very convincing and true to life performance. These are assisted by Arthur Wolk as Dennett, a fake officer, who also wishes to get his hands on some of the treasure.

Mr. and Mrs. Pengard, cleverly portrayed by Richard Trammell and Nina Larson, are two more thieves after Ambrose's treasure.

Lush, the butler, enacted by Robert Stewart, certainly acted well his part as an old retainer of the family.

Edna Alpert has a knack of enacting old women parts such as Mrs. Whatcomb, caretaker of Ambrose's household. A regular "granma." Dorothy Kilinski adapted herself nicely to the role of a maid.

All four plays this year had quality, were artistic, and held the deepest interest of the audiences.

"Glory and love to thee men of old,
Their sons may copy their virtues bold;
Courage in heart, and a sword in hand
Ready to fight for Fatherland."

This year's record in football shows the Meteors' qualities and virtues of their forefathers, who years ago would fight wars for the defense and honor of their country. If these forefathers could, by chance, return to life they would probably gaze upon the fight and spirit of their younger generation with pride and admiration. Instead of fighting wars for a nation, the Meteors have fought faithfully for the honor and reputation of Thornton Fractional on the gridiron. Though peaceful at heart, these boys trained diligently each morning against adverse conditions in order to defeat their many rivals.

Every team which Thornton Fractional played last season easily outweighed them, but the fight and courage which the Meteors inherited from their ancestors enabled them to carry on and outplay each and every team no matter what the odds were.

The power of the small Meteor eleven was clearly displayed in their three opening non-league games when they easily won over a new opponent, George Rogers Clark of Hammond, by a score of 6 to 0, and for the first time in their history, showed their superiority over Hammond High (6 to 0) in a game so skillfully played that it attracted many football fans' attention, and then conquered Hammond Tech by defeating them 7 to 0, thus winning the inter-city championship.

The boys in purple and gold then continued their winning streak by capturing their first two league games when they invaded and won a 7 to 0 victory from Kankakee and turned back the charges of Blue Island by smearing them to the tune of 20 to 6.

After subduing their first five opponents, the Meteor warriors were unfortunate and could get nothing more than credit for a moral victory in a battle which they dropped to Thornton of Harvey 13 to 0. Many followers thought the surprise team of the year had met its Waterloo, but regained hopes for a tie for championship when Chicago Heights tripped Harvey the next week.

Although the possibilities of championship were clearly foreshadowed, Thornton Fractional's plucky team was weakened considerably by injuries suffered in the Harvey game by Padjen. This handicapped them when they let Catholic Central tie them in a closely fought game (0 to 0). With that never die spirit they came back the following week to surprise the much larger Chicago Heights gridmen by whipping them 14 to 0 in a spectacular game by presenting a much superior brand of modern football tactics to gain a tie with Harvey for the South Suburban Championship, the Meteors' second one in three years.

Although Captain-elect Frank Grigonis, John Nowak, Raymond McCloskey, Frank Kunka, Edwin Wojciechowski and Dan Kelley did the scoring, much credit for the victories and fighting spirit go to Captain Mike Genova, Valentine Lewandowski, Eugene Yonke, Thomas Nondorf, Jasper, Mangino, Harold Coyle, Nick Padjen, Bernard Karr, Walter Bolek, and the other reserves who were so loyal and faithful to the school and team that they came out every day to encourage and build the team for their victories. Even though these reserves were not lettermen their manly fight and T. F. spirit did not allow them to give up, and they will undoubtedly be the future stars of the Meteor teams.

Then, in acknowledging their marvelous record, Coach Petree rewarded them with a dinner to celebrate their championship. Further tribute was paid to these fighting men when they were presented with gold footballs by John Millett, sportsmen, at the Annual Thornton Fractional Football Banquet. At the banquet it was announced that the following boys were selected on the All-South Surburban team:

Nick Padjen—Center
John Nowak—Fullback
Dan Kelley—Right end (Captain)

The lettermen for 1934 consist of Captain Mike Genova, Captain-elect Frank Grigonis, John Nowak, Dan Kelley, Jasper Mangino, Edwin Wojciechowski, Valentine Lewandowski, Eugene Yonke, Bernard Karr, Raymond McCloskey, Nick Padjen, Thomas Nondorf, Frank Kunka, Harold Coyle, Walter Bolek and Managers Robert Miller and Jack Dermody.

The season record shows six wins, one defeat and one tie for a percentage of .857. The league record shows a tie for first place with three wins and one defeat with a percentage of .750. The average points per game gives seven and a half for the Meteors and two and three eighths for the opponents.

Game Losers

The fighting spirit native to Thornton Fractional teams was again shown in last season's basketball squad. At the beginning of the season, Coach Antonides succeeded Coach Petree as basketball mentor. Coach Antonides started the season with rather poor material and when the team kept losing consistently, he discarded the senior members and began to work on a team for the future.

This team was made up entirely of underclassmen, who were very inexperienced and had no height. They received only an hour and a half practice each morning. Because of no gymnasium in which to play, they had few home games. Despite all these adverse conditions, Coach Antonides inaugurated a new style of basketball and produced a fighting, spirited squad.

In the opening game the Meteors were set back by Argo 29 to 24. They then tripped Catholic Central and lost three in succession to Roosevelt, Hammond Tech, and Lockport. Their second triumph was the opening league game of which University High was the victim (18-15). After again being beaten by Argo they lost to the league champions from Harvey. Hobart, Blue Island, Lockport, Chicago Heights, and Kankakee found the boys in purple and gold tough customers to subdue.

arting the second round of the season, T. F. eked out a 15-14 decision to University High but lost to Catholic Central and Harvey. The Meter five proved to be quite a different ball club when Hammond Tech and Blue Island defeated them. Kankakee, Bloom and Hobart were a little more than the Meteors could handle and as a result Fractional ended the season with three defeats at the hands of the larger boys.

Then came the sectional tournament in which T. F. easily romped over Beecher (36 to 20). In the semi-finals Harvey, State finalists, stopped Thornton Fractional. As a result of their loss to Harvey, they played and lost another to Peotone for the consolation championship.

SEASON SUMMARY—1935 Lettermen: Captain Ray McCloskey, Don Finneran, Walter Biel, Frank Grigonis, Ben Karr, Champ Pawloski, and Managers Jones and Annarino. Season Record: Won 3; Lost 18; Per cent .143. League Record: Won 2; Lost 8; Per cent .200. Average points per game: T. F. 24; Opponents 34.

Petree Commends Year's Work

A statement of the years as a whole from Athletic Director W. L. Petree follows:

"Under the practicing and playing conditions at Thornton Fractional in the last year, I think the boys and girls made a very good showing. The coaches of the school are gratefully thankful for the use of the Calumet Memorial Park Gym and playgrounds, Burnham Grade School Gym, and the Lansing Coolidge School Gym.

"A football co-championship was shared with Harvey, the basketball lights finished a strong second in league competition and the heavies in basketball should be heard from next year as the squard was made up of underclassmen this past season.

"The girls' sports of volley-ball, captain-basketball, basketball, and baseball gave many girls the desired game exercise."

Sixty Girls Promote G.A.C.

Again, this year as last year, the enrollment of the G. A. C. consists of sixty girls who are enthusiastic athletes and who participate in the various girls' sports.

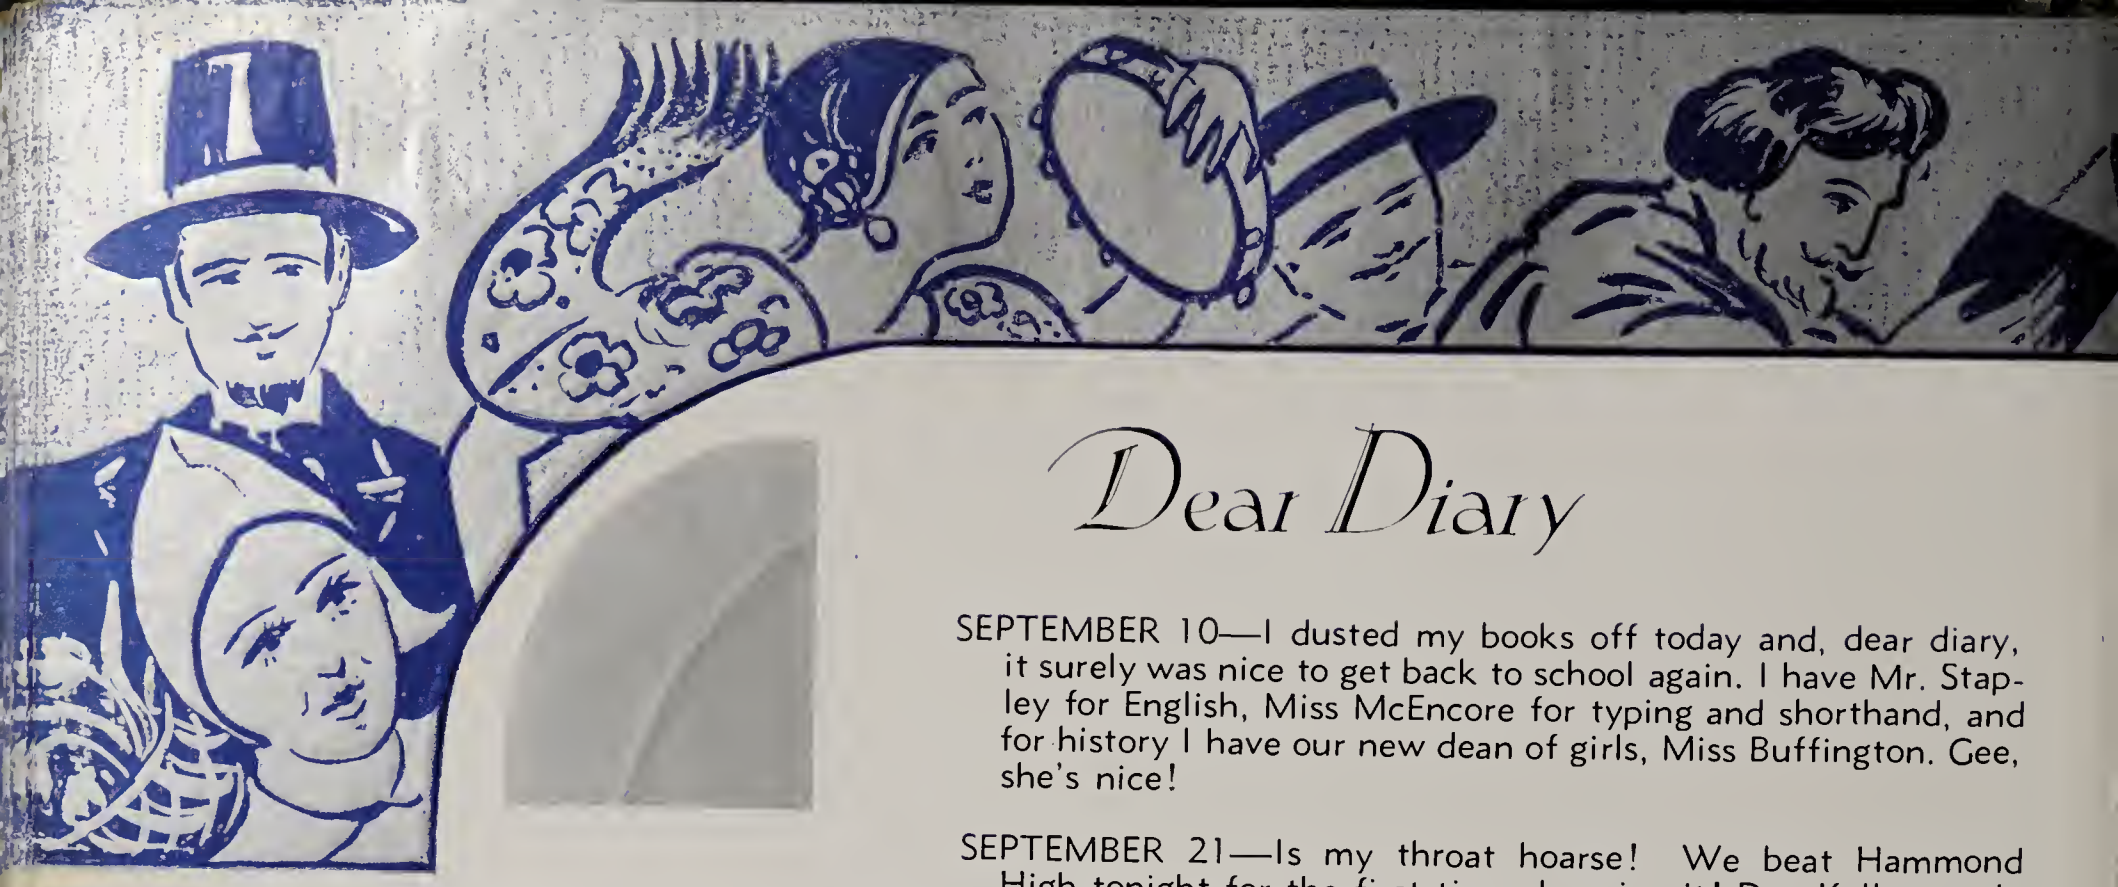
The four major sports include volleyball, captain-basketball, basketball, and kitten-ball. Much interest is aroused when volleyball season begins. Another popular sport is basketball, which follows the volleyball season. Then comes spring! Contrary to sentimental traditions, spring fever does not effect athletics but rather tends to make interest more intense during this season.

There are also several minor sports such as hiking, roller-skating, and tennis in which members take part to earn more points. By adhering strictly to training rules additional points may be obtained.

Finally, as the year draws to a close, those junior and senior girls who have participated in the most events and have shown marked personal development are rewarded with the much coveted T. F. monograms. The one senior girl who stands foremost in the mind of the physical education director, Miss A. C. Jaacks, is awarded a medal and her name is engraved on the girls' athletic loving cup.

The annual banquet is held in June to get all the G. A. C. members and alumnae who were G. A. C. members together, to introduce the newly elected board for the coming year, to award the T. F. monograms, and to give the medal to the senior girl who excelled in sports during her four years at school.

All the girls are eagerly looking forward to the time when the new school will be completed, for according to the plans, there will be a gym for the girls exclusively. This will bar all interruptions and girls will become even more interested in sports.



Dear Diary

SEPTEMBER 10—I dusted my books off today and, dear diary, it surely was nice to get back to school again. I have Mr. Stapley for English, Miss McEncore for typing and shorthand, and for history I have our new dean of girls, Miss Buffington. Gee, she's nice!

SEPTEMBER 21—Is my throat hoarse! We beat Hammond High tonight for the first time. Imagine it! Dan Kelley made the touchdown. The teams played under the lights again.

SEPTEMBER 24—School is running smoothly. I have all my classes in the morning and have the rest of the day to do as I please. This morning Miss McEncore fell down the stairs of the portable and received injuries but kept right on teaching.

SEPTEMBER 27—Whoopee—What a football season! This makes our third successive victory. This time we beat Hammond Tech.

SEPTEMBER 28—My! What a night! I'm soaked! We held the first Girls' Club Board meeting at Miss Buffington's home and I had to walk to and fro in the rain.

OCTOBER 5—We were given a free copy of the Thorntonian today. It surely is a nice little paper and the Lowdown is grand. I went to the football game at Kankakee and we won again!

OCTOBER 7—Miss Buffington has figured out the nicest way of entertaining the new freshmen girls. She is taking them alphabetically. The first tea was held today and I served as hostess. It was a lot of fun.

OCTOBER 15—The junior play tryouts were held today. And, dearest diary, B. L. walked home with me tonight and we spent the evening together. Did we have fun!

OCTOBER 18—Don Finneran was elected president of the junior class in the elections today. Went to the rally tonight and during the time we were parading in Harvey the Thornton boys threw rotten vegetables at us, the meanies!

OCTOBER 19—Of all the luck! We lost to Thornton of Harvey in the game tonight, our first defeat of the season.

OCTOBER 20—Report cards were distributed but the results are satisfactory so everything is all right. The freshman reception was held at the Wilson Gym tonight.

OCTOBER 25—The G. A. C. party held tonight was more fun, and the refshments were delicious!

OCTOBER 29—The teachers had an institute in Harvey and we, the students, celebrated.

NOVEMBER 15—I went to see "A Russian Honeymoon" this afternoon. It was a very interesting play and the costumes were lovely.

NOVEMBER 16—In today's issue of the Thorntonian it was announced that Mr. Antonides was the new head of the basketball team. Here's to a victorious season!

NOVEMBER 23—What a day! More things happened than on any other day I can remember and am I tired. I attended the Chronoscope Dance with A. S. and had the grandest time. The lightweight basketball season opened today.

NOVEMBER 28—The office secretary, Florence Kowalski, was married this morning. She's now Mrs. Walter Malachowski. I was Cinderella tonight. My prince was J. T. We attended the Girls' Club Story Book Ball and had a simply grand time. What boys will do!

NOVEMBER 29—Thanksgiving Day! I'll bet every student in school is giving thanks for the holidays we're having today and tomorrow. And was the turkey dinner good tonight! I'll bet I dream of it.

DECEMBER 18—Nothing much happened during the past two weeks, just the regular grind. The Christmas Social Hour was held tonight and that provided some excitement.

DECEMBER 20—To commemorate the anniversary of the fire an assembly was held today at St. Victor's Church. A beautiful pageant "Why the Chimes Rang" was presented.

DECEMBER 21—No more work for two weeks! I'll have plenty of time to do my Christmas shopping. In some of the classes today we had Christmas programs. Mr. Stapley read Henry Van Dyke's story "The Other Wise Man" to us.

JANUARY 1—Went to the Trianon New Year's eve! It was grand!

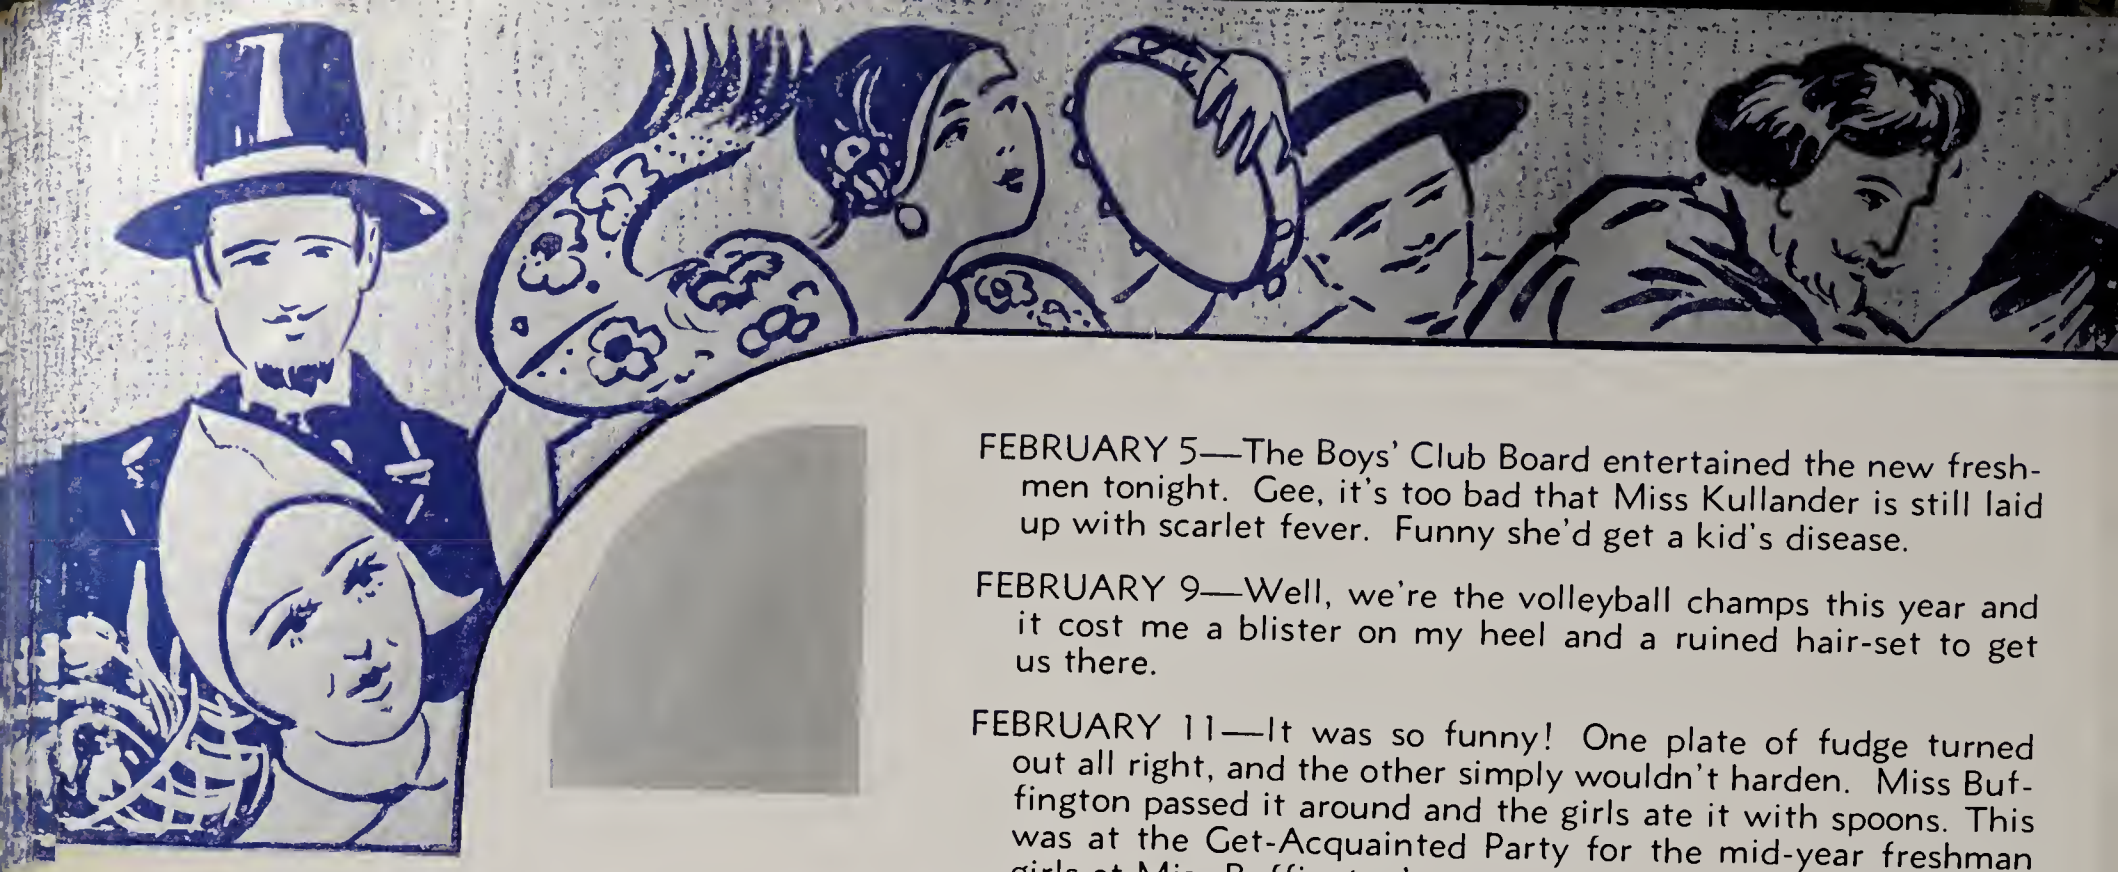
JANUARY 3—Well here it is, 1935. It doesn't feel any different, though. The weather has been pretty cold too. I was escorted to the senior-alumni dance held tonight at the Woodrow Wilson Gym by H. P., who graduated in '34. It was a pretty nice affair.

JANUARY 7—Back to the old grind, again. Anyway, the vacation was pretty good while it lasted and I don't think anyone would have minded terribly if it had continued for a week or so longer. The Christmas gift I liked best was the darling knitted suit that Mother gave me. And here she had been working on it all this time and I didn't know about it.

JANUARY 28—And so Miss McEncroe sprang something on us and was married in October. Anyway, I'm glad she gave us our exam. I didn't know Mr. Stapley was so crazy about Shakespeare until I saw the exam. Then the history exam wasn't so bad with the exception of those true, dubious, and false statements. I couldn't figure out some of them. But the one I enjoyed most was our typing exam. We didn't have any!

JAUNARY 31—Gee, I'm tired! I've been dancing all evening at the January Social Hour. There were a lot of kids there, and we had a swell time.

FEBRUARY 4—Well, dearest diary, I'm turning over a new leaf. The new semester began today. My classes are all at the same time they were last year.



FEBRUARY 5—The Boys' Club Board entertained the new freshmen tonight. Gee, it's too bad that Miss Kullander is still laid up with scarlet fever. Funny she'd get a kid's disease.

FEBRUARY 9—Well, we're the volleyball champs this year and it cost me a blister on my heel and a ruined hair-set to get us there.

FEBRUARY 11—It was so funny! One plate of fudge turned out all right, and the other simply wouldn't harden. Miss Buffington passed it around and the girls ate it with spoons. This was at the Get-Acquainted Party for the mid-year freshman girls at Miss Buffington's apartment.

FEBRUARY 12—Another nice day! Lincoln's birthday and no school. Had my hair set and saw "Evelyn Prentice" at the Parthenon.

FEBRUARY 15—I've spent the day collecting popularity coupons

FEBRUARY 22—Holiday again! Washington's birthday. Persuaded Mom to go to Chicago and get me a new dress at the Corner Shop at the Davis Store.

MARCH 7—The Basketball Tournament begins today. Wonder if we have a chance.

MARCH 11—The Boys' Club held their Father-Son Party. It's a gyp that the girls didn't get to see that film of the school burning.

MARCH 12—This evening at the Lincoln School the underclassmen presented "The Merchant of Venice." It was very well given and the Elizabethan costumes were extremely pretty, especially the girls! The boys were a scream in their short tunics. I heard one of the teachers say that some of the kids were as good as some of the Globe actors.

MARCH 14—I went to see the other cast of the Shakespearian play at Wentworth today and I don't know which one is better. I'd hate to be the one to choose the cast that will perform at Lansing.

MARCH 17—Quite a few kids were wearing shamrocks. Bet Mr. Leonard and Miss McGraw feel cocky today.

MARCH 30—I don't think I'll ever forget the April Fool issue of the Thorntonian distributed today. Articles were printed upside down. Headlines were written backwards. Some articles were written in the phonetic method, that is, words are written just as they sound, and what a time I had reading them. Then there were the "Merchant of Venice" comments printed in Chinese style and you had to read up the page. The paper was folded wrong and pages were numbered crazily.

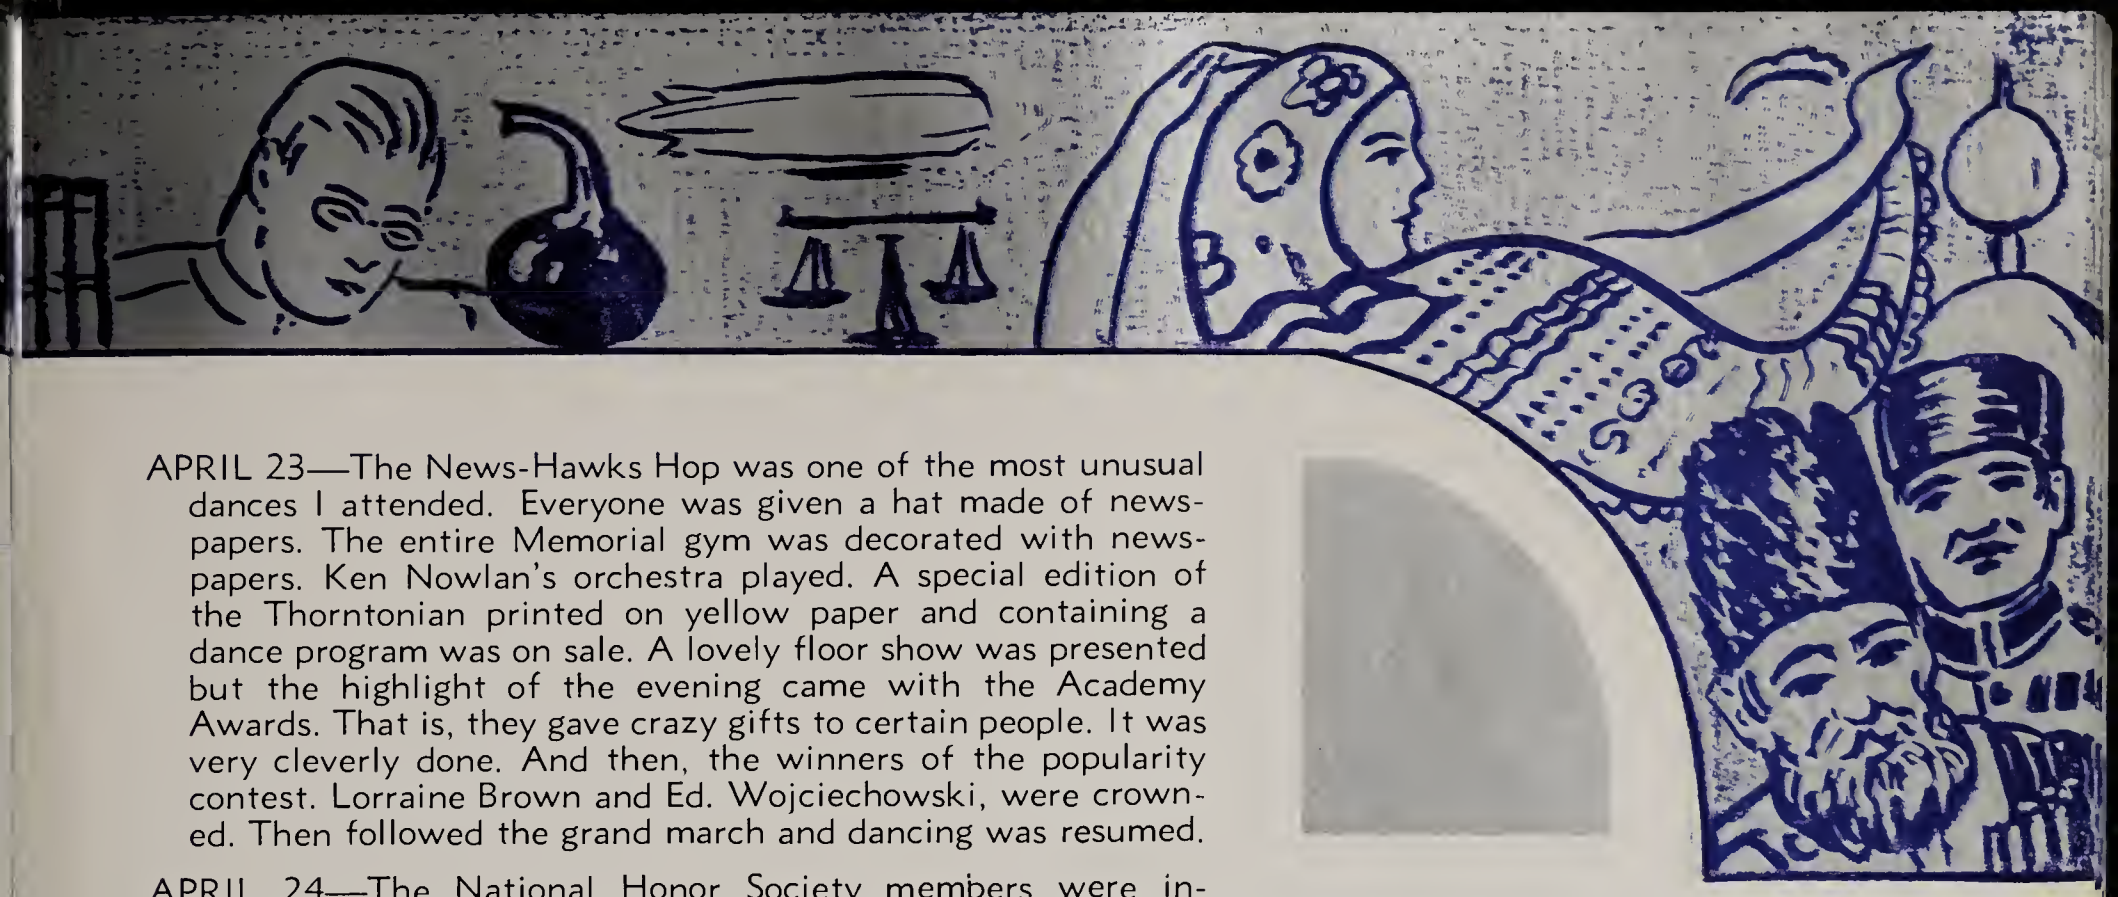
APRIL 15—Brrrrrrrrrrr—was it cold today! I had to wear my winter coat again.

APRIL 16—Calumet City elections were held and the new mayer, Mr. Zick was elected.

APRIL 19—Good Friday. No School. Went to church and Aunt Mary and family were over for dinner.

APRIL 21—Easter Sunday and what a time I've had. It was so much fun watching people pass in their new outfits. My blue suit which I got at Minas's made me feel right in style.

APRIL 22—Another holiday today. I didn't have much to do.



APRIL 23—The News-Hawks Hop was one of the most unusual dances I attended. Everyone was given a hat made of newspapers. The entire Memorial gym was decorated with newspapers. Ken Nowlan's orchestra played. A special edition of the Thorntonian printed on yellow paper and containing a dance program was on sale. A lovely floor show was presented but the highlight of the evening came with the Academy Awards. That is, they gave crazy gifts to certain people. It was very cleverly done. And then, the winners of the popularity contest. Lorraine Brown and Ed. Wojciechowski, were crowned. Then followed the grand march and dancing was resumed.

APRIL 24—The National Honor Society members were installed today at our assembly at St. Victor's church in a very impressive ceremony. Besides this Miss McGraw introduced the cast of the senior play, "Captain Applejack" which it seems will be quite a play. And best of all Mr. Lockhart made the announcement that the new school will be ready for occupancy by January, 1936.

APRIL 26—Well tonight I did see the senior play and it was all I expected it to be and more. The acting was splendid and the costumes beautiful.

APRIL 27—Attended the Girls' Club Conference at Harvey. Had a marvelous time. I especially enjoyed the speaker, Mrs. Jill Edwards.

APRIL 29—I received the loveliest corsage tonight. Each girl who attended the style show at Minas's was given one. Seems to me the evening gowns were the stunningest.

MAY 1—Election day for the Boys' and Girls' Clubs carried out in the English classes. My, everything seems to be done in English classes, from selling tickets to running contests.

MAY 2—I'd hate to be in Miss Moe's shoes! We got to school today and found out that she went through an appendicitis operation last night. I wonder how the journalism class is going to get along without her.

MAY 4—What a night and what a party. I don't believe I ever had more fun than I did at the Roller Skating Party. The highlight of the evening was the perfect tumble executed by dignified Dean Fruehling and the sedate Dorothy Mayer.

MAY 15—Did I feel good today wearing my big red bow! And the social hour held at Memorial Park was held in honor of us.

MAY 20—The annual Mothers' Daughters' Party was a success. The candle light ceremony was beautiful and the entertainment, grand.

MAY 24—Our band gave a concert with the Field Artillery Band this evening at Woodrow Wilson. Boy! Can that Artillery Band roll the drums.

MAY 30—Decoration Day and no school!

JUNE 1—Dearest, dearest diary, the most longed for night of the year has passed with only one regret, and that is, that it couldn't have lasted longer. I went to the Prom with F. M.! After the Prom we went to the Blackhawk Restaurant and I had the best time ever.

JUNE 4—Well, the "Swell meal" is over and this is exactly what is was, our G. A. C. banquet at Rothschild's Restaurant.

JUNE 13—The night of nights! Graduation! And I am now a T. F. alumna. Gee, it gives you a queer feeling to hear your name called and go up to receive your diploma, that piece of paper that you've worked for for four long years.

Betty and Bob

"Hello, Betty Sophomore," said Bob Senior, "am I early enough that we can walk down town to the theatre? I like to window shop, don't you?"

"Yes, I do," said Betty, "and by the look of your clothes you have been doing more than window shopping. Where did you get that spiffy sports coat, Bob? It sure makes you look swell."

"You ought to know, Betty. That's a smooth outfit you have on, and I'll bet you got it at Minas's, just as I got my suit there."

"That's right, Bob. E. C. Minas Company have the stuff we all like."

"Well, let's go, Betty."

"Look, Betty, at the new indirect lighting lamps in the window of the Calumet City Public Service Company. Wouldn't they be great to study by? Dad's going to get us one to help our eyes from straining."

"Oh, Bob! Did you notice that we just went by Chas. H. Mayer's. Does that mean anything to you?"

"I'll say it does, Betty. When we come home after the show it means a couple of soda pops."

"Where does your Dad get the gas and oil for the family bus, Betty? We always go to the State Line Service Station."

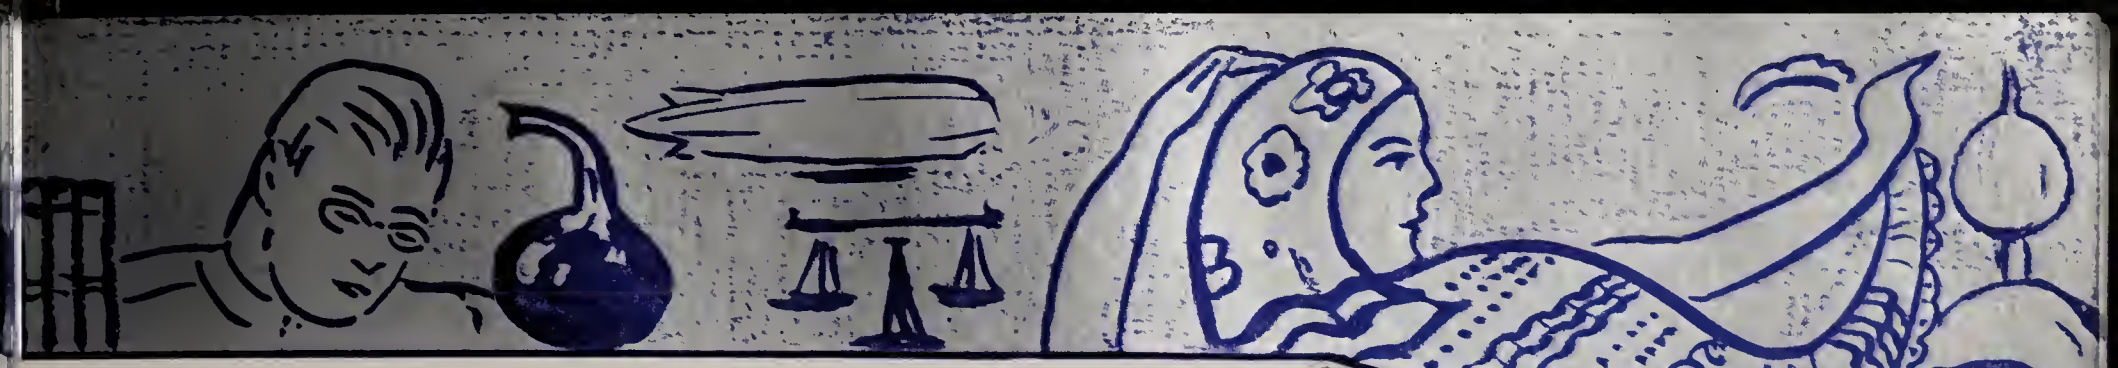
"That's where we always go, too, Bob. Mr. Van Pelt is the proprietor of the station, you know. Edna Van Pelt is his daughter, and all the students like the friendly way he looks after their car problems."

"You know, Betty, I like going to Perrin's to play billiard and bowl. Let's make up a party some time and all go there. It's a keen place."

"If I get the kind of radio I saw at the Colonial, Bob, you'll find me sitting right beside it at home, and you can come over with the bunch and we'll have a party there, too. We bought our last radio at the Colonial, and it surely was a peach."

"Look at the swanky fur coats in the window of the Alaska Fur Company. Mr. Zweiban surely knows style. I'm all set for a new coat next fall, Bob, and there's my choice right in the center of the window."

"You're a lucky girl, Betty, if you have a new fur coat coming, but I'm lucky too. Dad's promised me a business course at the Standard Commercial College, and I'm all set to get going just as soon as the new term starts and I've had some holidays."



Go Window Shopping

"That reminds me, Bob, I want to get a typewriter. Let's go to Dick Hoyt. He's got every kind you can think of and keeps them in perfect condition. Then I really can surprise the home folks by turning out plenty of home work."

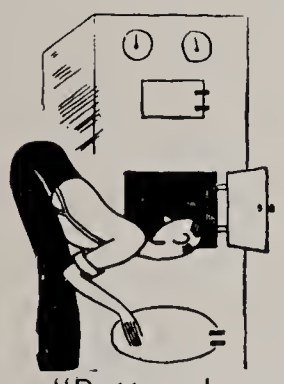
"Oh, Bob, I just noticed your senior ring. It looks great. Where did you get it?"

"Spies Brothers of Chicago, Betty. That's where we always get our class rings and pins, you know. They supply thee best. They are the official jewelers for T. F."

☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆

"Well, Betty, that was a good show, and I'm glad I was able to take you with me. Dad's doing well with the Great Lakes Brewing Company. They make a good beer, and people realize it."

"That's fine, Bob, let's hope business remains good. My Dad's with John J. Brehm & Sons Coal Company, and the coal they sell made many friends."



"Speaking of friends, Betty, did you ever stop to think of all the friends our school has, friends such as ex-Mayor Jaranowski, who is now in the construction business."

"Yes, Bob, I have. And there is Mr. Winterhoff of Lansing who is always willing to help any school program. He and Mr. Jaranowski did a lot to make the Book Benefit Dance a great success."

"Betty, doesn't the Administration building look lovely in the moonlight? Now that Mr. Zick is the mayor we have a good friend, too, in him, to help put our high school over in a big way."

"Yes, Bob, he has always been progressive. Won't is be great if we get our new library? Gee, the students surely could use it and appreciate it. Well, here's hoping that we can both be using the library for our studies."

"When we get into our swell new building I s'pose we won't be using Memorial Park again except for regional tournments and things like that, but we surely made use of it this year for everything from girls' sports to the schoo dances. Mr. Murray and his assistants are about the nicest and most obliging fellows I ever met. I found that out when we put on the News Hawks Hop."

"Good-night Betty, I must leave you now. I'll be over tomorrow about seven so we can get on the Memorial Park tennis courts before the rush."

"Alright, Bob, I'll be ready, and I certainly enjoyed being with you. I don't know which I enjoyed the more, the theatre or our ramble around town looking and chatting about all our friends."

And then the room that we enjoy most in school, the cafeteria. The dining room will be much smaller than the other one with a seating capacity of 468. The Stearnes Company is providing the supplies. And do the teachers get a break! They will have their own private dining room. There will be a single steam line where we can get our hot lunches. Besides there will be two additional counters for our light lunches and ice cream, which naturally will make service much more rapid. The large refrigerator that was in the old cafeteria was not destroyed by the fire and will be used again. An addition will be a washroom and locker room for cafeteria employees.

PERSONAL NOTES

If, after going down to his studio to have your picture taken, and later seeing the result, you thought Mr. Uhle was a pretty good shot with a camera, you should see him shoot with a gun. He always has two hunting dogs handy, too, for that unexpected trip. Hunting quail down in Indiana is seventh heaven to him. Another of his favorite hobbies is fishing. The thing we liked best about Mr. Uhle is that he isn't one of these long haired, artistic photographers. In fact, he looks more like a doctor or lawyer. Another pastime of Mr. Uhle's is taking motion pictures of his two children, his pride and joy.

PROFESSIONAL NOTES

Proof of the fact that he is a good photographer is: he has taken the pictures for our school for the past six years and we haven't had an argument with him yet. The engravers always have complimented him on the clearness of his pictures which, makes the production of cuts easier. He is also a commercial photographer and takes pictures for factories, stores, etc. He is often called upon to take photos of automobile accidents, often being called as far as 120 miles for this. Mr. Uhle is considered the best shooter of group pictures in the district. Speaking of versatility he is even qualified to shoot films. All in all, he rates o.k. with us.

It surely will all be swell and up to the minute. White City Electric Company is doing all this.
